

ASK US... PHOTOGRAPHIC EQUIPMENT INSURANCE

Arranged exclusively by Williamson Carson and Co Ltd.

Can you afford to be without it?

- Whilst trekking in the jungle in West Papua to photograph a local tribe, our Insured had to cross a rickety wooden bridge to get to his destination. To cross it he had to sit on it and inch slowly across, but he lost his balance, grabbed a strut on the side of the bridge and ended upside down, only managing to save himself by hanging on with his knees. His camera fell from around his neck. The camera was replaced under the miscellaneous equipment section.
- On location in Trinidad, our Insured placed his equipment into his vehicle to move it a few hundred yards down the road. As he pulled away, the rear door of the vehicle swung open and some kit fell out. He immediately stopped and went back to retrieve it but it had gone. He believed it was stolen by a man who had been watching him take the photos. All kit was replaced under the equipment section.
