

ASK US... PHOTOGRAPHIC EQUIPMENT INSURANCE

Arranged exclusively by Williamson Carson and Co Ltd.

Can you afford to be without it?

– Whilst trekking in the Jungle in West Papua to photograph a jungle tribe, our insured had to cross a series of bridges to get to his destination. To cross a rickety wooden bridge he had to sit on it and inch slowly across. He lost his balance, and grabbed a strut on the side of the bridge only to find it was rotten. He ended up-side-down, but managed to save himself by hanging on with his knees. He lost his camera as it fell from around his neck. The camera was replaced under the miscellaneous equipment section.

– On location in Trinidad, our Insured placed his equipment into his vehicle to move a few hundred yards down the road. As he pulled away he realised that the rear door of the vehicle had swung open and some kit had fallen out. He immediately stopped the vehicle and went back to retrieve it only to find it had gone. He believed it had been stolen by a man who was watching him take the photos. All kit was replaced under the equipment section.
