

Chubb expands its private clients sales team

London, 2nd September 2010 - Chubb Insurance Company of Europe has expanded its private clients sales team with two new appointments. Jon Wozniak is appointed as business development manager for the South West and South Wales and Andrew Scannell is joining the team as business development executive.

Jon Nottingham, Chubb's UK & Ireland development manager for personal lines said: "I'm delighted to welcome Jon and Andrew to our team. The private clients sales team has undergone a restructuring process, which has given us the opportunity to expand the team and identify new business targets. We are especially keen to develop our business in the South West, and Jon will play a significant role in opening up new opportunities for us and help establish us in a region that has been dormant for too long. In an environment where most companies have had to cut costs and reduce overheads, expanding our team demonstrates the success of our high net worth business and the company's belief in the sales team."

Jon Wozniak previously worked for Bluefin as part of its national sales management team and Andrew Scannell joins Chubb from AXA Insurance, where he was a key account executive in its corporate partnerships business.
