Claims Scenarios

- The insured manufactured a vacuum vessel that exploded at a customer's plant located in Europe causing one fatality and injury to others. The insured's General Liability policy, which included Chubb's Global Extension, responded to the bodily injury and property damage lawsuits that were filed in London. Chubb's multinational claims unit was instrumental in successfully settling the claim for significantly less than the original demand.
- The insured, a distributor of cell phone accessories, unknowingly distributed counterfeit accessories manufactured by its foreign vendor. After the products were distributed, several of the accessories overheated causing fires in their customers' warehouses. Chubb's General Liability policy responded to the claims for bodily injury and property damage resulting from the defective products.
- A glass manufacturer acquired a manufacturer of deluxe shower doors. After the acquisition was finalized, the new owner was sued due to bodily injury caused by an alleged product defect in one of the shower doors that was sold two years prior to the acquisition. The new owners had required the sellers to purchase successor liability coverage as part of the purchase and sales agreement. Chubb's Continuum liability policy provided insurance for the successor liability and responded to the lawsuit, incurring significant defense expenses to resolve the suit.
