Claims Scenarios

- A driver employed by the insured was working as a temporary employee for another company when she caused a motor vehicle accident resulting in serious injuries. The plaintiff alleged the employee was in course and scope of employment since the off-property collision occurred during the insured employee’s lunch hour. Chubb accepted defense and indemnity pursuant to indemnity language flowing in the employing business’s favor. The demand was 60 times the offer and the verdict value was 10% lower than the demand. Counsel was engaged by Chubb and a defense verdict was received in favor of the insured where the jury found our driver was outside the course and scope of employment.

- During heavy rains, an insured drove a high-value vehicle into a large puddle. A Chubb auto technical specialist was engaged immediately and made it a priority to have the vehicle torn down and thoroughly inspected at a repair shop. The vehicle was inspected and deemed a total loss within three days of the loss report and a settlement offer was extended the same day. The insured was fully protected by Chubb’s high-value vehicle endorsement.

- The driver of an insured vehicle was hit head on when another vehicle moved into its lane on a two-lane highway. The insured vehicle caught fire after the incident. Chubb’s investigation determined that the driver of the other was responsible for the loss and the claimant carrier accepted liability for the accident. The insured vehicle was a high-value vehicle with a high-end trailer, both of which were declared a total loss. Chubb also paid towing, storage, and cleanup charges related to the accident. Due to the severity of the accident, which included the fatality of the claimant driver, Chubb had an auto technical specialist involved in the damage investigation and appraisal process.
