

I am an IT application administrator. I am Kelvin.

Good time management, effective communication skills, forward thinking and the ability to react promptly are key components to my craft.

My job involves managing our in-house system applications, and network management. As a team, we identify opportunities for improvements in processes and business operations using information technology. We analyse needs, identify the system requirements and provide solutions to promote operational efficiency and increase revenue.