The platform integrates self-insured workers compensation programs, to help you monitor absence across those, too.

Finding the right line

Cathy stumbled in the office — and ended up in hospital with a broken arm. After being told she'd be unable to work for a few weeks, she reported the event through the Chubb WorkInsight™ app.

We helped to manage her claim in the right way, to keep things easy for her while she focused on her recovery.

The outcome

Cathy's voluntary insurance coverage helped to stabilize her finances while she made a recovery — enabling her to return to work a little bit earlier than expected.

And we helped her employer keep track of her absence under its self-insured workers compensation program.
